

VH-1 SHOW „WHERE ARE THEY NOW“

So, where is Laura Branigan now? She's still at it, the crowd has gotten smaller but she's ready to make it big again.

I think I'm redier now than I've ever been, you know, I've been through it.

It was a hard road back after years of personal tragedy.

My husband was diagnosed with colon cancer.

Laura literally quit with business to take care of her dying husband.

Then I had to go through the mourning stage you know, you can't get around that, you have to go through the fire.

In the early 2000 after nearly ten years away from the spotlight, Branigan was ready to get back into the music business.

I started recording again and I was, I climed up on a ladder and I slipped and fell down and the legs went under me and I broke both my femurs.

After six mounth of physical therapy Laura is finally good to go with another remake, this time it's the ABBA classic, „The Winner Takes It All.“

I have a new CD. Yep, we're just trickling it out, we're sneaking it out and we're going to budget it's performance and just start pumping away.

Never look back, I have to go forward. I'm grown up, I wanna go thataway!
